An adult skater, Perry has skated under both ISU and ISI organizations, (she started skating many years ago in New York under the USFSA Learn to Skate Programme) and competed in SkateAsia twice while living in the Middle East. Her husband and three children also all skate and have taken part as a family in numerous shows and events in the Middle East. Back home in Ireland, she is a judge for the ISAI.

Perry is leading the impaired skating project in Ireland with great success as Ireland has already included the Rondinelli scale in its test rules and an impaired skater has already used the bonus in a national ice skating test. As a parent of an impaired skater, Perry understands firsthand the difficulties and restrictions imposed on impaired skaters skating without the Inclusive Skating marking system.
